Margaret Highton, Evermoor Hub chair and Councillor Claire Cooper welcome Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Liz Savage and her consort, Councillor Noel Delaney to the Celebrate Skelmersdale Showcase

Showcase is a hit!

ORGANISERS have hailed the Celebrate Skelmersdale showcase held last Saturday (July 30) at the Evermoor Hub as a massive success.

Organisations from across the town gathered together to show people the wide variety of activities on their doorsteps and were rewarded with a fantastic response from the community.

Hundreds of people attended the event and many signed up for the workshops taking place throughout the week, which will culminate in the Celebrate Skelmersdale Music event this Friday (August, 5) at the E-Rooms starting at 7pm.

Along with demonstrations from Attitudes Dance Company, the Korean Martial Arts Academy and the Community Choir among others, the Men-Aces enjoyed the fair weather outside, playing exhibition games throughout the day.

Miriam Eaton, Men-Aces coach, said: "Looking on were a group of refugees from East Africa who were eager for a game, so we invited them to play. Their smiles said it all now they wish to start playing football."

Following the match, the Men-Aces are now looking for kit donations to provide further football activities.

The organising committee received support from local businesses with donations from SCA, Farmfoods, Procter and Gamble and Hotter Comfort Shoes providing prizes for raffles along with other materials and a huge amount of financial support was received from local councillors.

SKEM CHARITY'S BIKES FOR AFRICA PROJECT

Report by Henry James

VOLUNTEERS at a charity in Skelmersdale have prepared 200 bikes to send to children in Lesotho in Africa.

The work on the bikes was carried out by volunteers from Skelmersdale, Liverpool and Wigan at The Bike Works, which is based at the recycling centre at Total Reuse, in East Gillibrands.

A 15-strong team from The Bike Works are also trekking across Lesotho in a special 'Iron Man' challenge to raise funds for charity.

Colin Southern from The Bike Works said: "In February this year we linked up with Liverpool Heartbeat and the Spitfire Heritage Trust's Bikes To Africa project.

"Originally our project was just one person beavering away but we've since expanded this and now have half-a-dozen wonderful volunteers.

"We now teach them to become bike mechanics with some successfully going off into full-time employment."

Robyn Baynes MBE, from Liverpool Heartbeat was on-site this week helping to get the bikes ready for shipping.

He put a model Spitfire aeroplane in one of the containers as a gesture of friendship and of the comradeship shown between the two countries during the Second World War.

Liverpool Heartbeat is a charity which has been inspiring young people in the North West and Merseyside to pursue 'healthy, exciting, fulfilled lifestyles' since its formation in 2002.

The team involved in the Iron Man trek have supplied all their bikes and equipment. They are due to head out in the next few weeks and will be biking over

Consultation started on proposals to reduce housing budget by £6m

COUNCIL tenants in West Lancashire are being consulted on a range of proposed savings of more than £6million in the housing budget over the next three years.

The council is taking action to address a budget gap in its housing business plan caused largely, it claims, by a change in government policy resulting in rents being reduced by 1% every year until 2020.

Previously the government's framework formula stated that rents would increase by inflation plus 1% per year with the change meaning that the council faces a reduction in revenue from what it had been expecting.

To address this in the short term the council took steps including making savings in its major housing refurbishment programme and actively managing staffing levels. The authority was also allowed to raise the rents in sheltered housing by 0.9 per cent, but still faces a total budget shortfall of £7.95m in its annual housing budgets over the next three years up to 2019/2020.

Councillors have approved a number of proposals for immediate implementation which they say do not have significant service implications, and will save £825,000 in 2017/18, and a total of £3.453m in the years up to 2020.

Councillor Jenny Patterson

These include the loss of vacant posts that don't have any direct impact on service delivery and streamlining budgets within the housing service.

Councillors also agreed a package of proposals be put forward for consultation with tenants. These are:

- Removal of the mains water replacement programme as there are no maintenance requirements at the current time.
- Removal of the programme to replace fencing and paving and replacing it with cyclical repairs from the overall revenue budget.
- Revising the council's housing disabled adaptations policy to make better use of housing stock and provide for the needs of the disabled.
- Introducing a 'nominal charge' for the gardening service of £5 per week for 26 weeks per year.

This package totals £2.325m projected savings in 2017/18 and a combined £6.155m for the years up to 2019/2020.

Councillor Jenny Patterson, the council's portfolio holder for housing and landlord services, said: "We have proposed measures we believe will minimise the effect on tenants of having to bridge this budget gap. We will invite tenants to give their views on these proposals and these will be taken into account during the decision making process later this year."

Tenants can give their views on the proposals for the Housing Revenue Budget by visiting the website www.westlancs.gov.uk/yourviews.

Consultation began on Monday, July 25 and will end on Sunday, September 4. Tenants who don't have access to the Internet can request a printed copy of the proposals by calling 01695 585141. They can send their comments to Housing Revenue Budget Consultation, Housing and Inclusion Services, 49-51 Westgate, Skelmersdale, WN8 8LP.

Tenants who are members of Your Voice, the consultation group will be sent a survey to give their views.

Council's CCTV operation earns national award

WEST Lancs Council's CCTV operations have earned a national award.

The council has successfully achieved the Surveillance Camera Commissioner's code of practice certification.

Obtaining the full five-year certification demonstrates the council's compliance with the Surveillance Code of Practice and proves good practice.

Certification also provides reassurance to the community that the council's public open-space CCTV scheme is managed appropriately and that the information gathered from the cameras is used in an appropriate manner and in accordance with the Surveillance Code of Practice guidelines.

The council currently operates 104 public open-space cameras and these help to keep crime low in the borough. To qualify for the award the CCTV operations had to undergo a rigorous audit from an independent examiner, the council has said.

Councillor Kevin Wright, the council's portfolio holder for community safety, said: "This is a fantastic achievement for the team and proves how hard they work to provide an effective CCTV operation for the borough."

Dave Tilleray, chairman of West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership and Councillor Kevin Wright, the council's portfolio holder for community safety, with the certificates.

The certification scheme was launched by the Surveillance Camera Commissioner in November 2015 to enable organisations complying with the code of practice to be independently audited. This provides extra credibility and transparency to their claims of compliance.

The council's recent annual report on the CCTV it operates shows that CCTV staff helped police officers make 337 arrests in West Lancashire. They were involved in 525 missing/vulnerable person incidents and also identified 1,525 incidents themselves through their general monitoring.

One of the issues the council must have due regard to is the privacy of private residents. The software used allows for parts of the CCTV image to be blanked out.

There are several existing cameras where privacy settings are installed to completely blank out windows or whole houses so that residents' privacy is ensured.

If you have any comments about privacy in relation to existing cameras, email community.safety@westlancs.gov.uk mountainous areas for five days and then doing a five-mile swim at the end of the ride.

The bikes and equipment will be donated to the local people in Lesotho at the end of the momentous trek.

The Bike Works was set up as a project by Total Reuse to supply refurbished bikes to the Cycle Back To Work scheme in West Lancs.

People living in Skelmersdale and Up Holland who can't reach industrial areas can be eligible for the council's Cycle to Work scheme where they can receive a free bike.

They receive their bikes from Merseyside Police, West Lancs Council, Liverpool Heartbeat and from public donations.

Colin added: "Most of these bikes are in a poor state of repair but our mechanics work miracles and turn them all into perfectly polished refurbished bikes."

Rita Newby, vice-chair of Celebrate Skelmersdale said the support from Margaret Highton and her team at Evermoor was crucial and the day would not have been possible without their support.

And Councillor Claire Cooper, chair of Celebrate Skelmersdale, said: "When we initially thought about Celebrate Skelmersdale we thought we would have enough activities to fill an afternoon. The response has been fantastic from the community and it looks like the festival will carry on into September."

Cycle route scheme gets the green light

Report by Henry James

COUNCILLORS have finally approved the proposed £500,000 cycle route which will run through Skelmersdale's Tawd Valley.

The decision to give the green light to the scheme was taken at the meeting of West Lancs Council's planning committee on Thursday, July 28.

The application had been made by Lancashire County Council and the cycleway will link cycling and walking routes.

It will also facilitate access to, through and across the Tawd Valley, linking neighbouring residential areas to the town centre, educational establishments such as the West Lancashire College, Lathom High School and Our Lady Queen of Peace Engineering College and employment areas such as Stanley Industrial Estate.

The route has been named the Barry Nolan Way in member of the late borough councillor who campaigned on behalf og the project.

It will start from the north at Irwell and extend to the south for about 2km joining with Skelmersdale town centre, south of the library.

County Councillor John Fillis, Lancashire County Council's cabinet member for highways and transport, said: "This is fantastic news. The cycleway had been championed by the late borough councillor Barry Nolan and that is why we named it after him in recognition of the work he has done on this project and what he has done for Skelmersdale for so many years.

"The cycleway will provide a safe cycling route and walking route that will connect work, college and leisure facilities for people right across Skelmersdale.

"It is really important that we demonstrate the way forward on health and well- being and this is why we have put so much money into this route. The route will be good for the environment as well as having benefits for local people."

Call to get involved in Community Action Days

RESIDENTS across the borough are being encouraged to get involved in community action days On their doorstep.

The community action days in Tanhouse, Birch Green, Scott Estate Ormskirk, Little Digmoor, Moorside and Digmoor are being organised by West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership working with the council, police, fire service and other agencies.

Staff from the agencies will be on the estates offering advice and support on community safety and skips will also be available from 9am until full at the following locations listed:

Tuesday, August 9, Tanhouse, Elmridge, car park to side at 73 to 79.

Wednesday, August 10, Birch Green, Hartshead, opposite rear of number 13.

Tuesday, August16, Little Digmoor, Alderley, service road.

Thursday, August 18, Digmoor, Blakehall, in front of 249 Beechtrees.

The community action days aim to improve working relationships, increase community confidence and reduce fear of crime.

Councillor Kevin Wright, the council's portfolio holder for community safety, said: "I hope residents take the opportunity to use the skips and talk to staff from the council, police and other agencies about any concerns they have about crime and community safety."

Police officers will be on the estates to give advice on crime prevention and other community safety issues. Victims' Voice will be involved to raise awareness of hate crime, and the support people they can receive if they are a victim.

Cars and house in Digmoor targeted by paint-throwing yobs

RESIDENTS had to clear up the mess - and count the cost - after paint-splashing vandals targeted cars and a house in Colinton, Cornbrook and Ormskirk Road, Digmoor.

The yobs struck some time between last Wednesday night and Thursday morning (July 27 and July 28).

One family saw two of their three cars covered in paint and they had to take them to a body shop to be cleaned up.

The vandals also smashed a wing mirror on another car and ripped its number plate off.

A house in the area also had orange paint splashed on the front door and the front window.

One resident, who asked not to be named, told the Champion: "I am absolutely disgusted by this. I can't understand why someone would commit mindless vandalism such as this causing trouble for hard-working people.

"The sides of two of the cars were covered in quite a significant amount of paint.

"This is generally quite a nice area where we live and to see this happen really upsets me. I have spoken to my neighbours and they are also really upset about it.

"I think this is a random attack, a moment of madness or drunkenness.

"But I don't think it was caused by kids as whoever did this left a hand print in paint on one of the vans and it was too high up to be a kid."

PCSO Stuart Leng from Skelmersdale Police commented: "We received several calls from residents in the Colinton, Cornbrook and Ormskirk Road areas of Digmoor reporting that they had woken up to discover paint had been poured all over their cars overnight.

"I have been out and about in these areas checking CCTV and doing house-to-house enquiries.

"Anyone with any information about who may be responsible for this please call police on the non-emergency contact number 101. Do NOT post any information on the Skelmersdale Police Facebook page as the site is nt monitored 24 hours a day.

"Alternatively, information can also be given anonymously to Crimestoppers by calling 0800555111."

Skem student wins first prize at West Lancs Open Exhibition

THE winners in this year's prestigious West Lancashire Open Exhibition, which brought together a vibrant collection of works by accomplished artists from across the UK at the Chapel Gallery, have been announced.

The superb annual exhibition was unveiled to the public on Saturday, July 16 and will be open at the West Lancs Council-run gallery in St Helens Road, Ormskirk until Wednesday, September 7.

It's a celebration of colour, technique and imagination and gives visitors the chance to see a variety of inspiring works created by talented individuals in a wide range of media.

All the works were judged by guest selectors including Jane Fairhurst and Arthur Roberts, who are both established artists and curators. Together the selection panel has chosen more than 200 artworks for exhibition in the light and open space of the Chapel Gallery.

Several works of art received commendations, while there were prizes for the best three entries, plus a prize for the best entry by a student.

First prize of £800 went to Andrew Robinson from Skelmersdale with his entry Bruckmeir in oil on canvas.

Second prize (£400) was won by Mike Hatjoullis from Liverpool with his lino cut entry, Blackpool, and third prize and £200 went to David Finnegan from Southport with Diamonds in bone china with a stoneware base.

The student prize of £150 was won by Elizabeth Munro from West Lancashire College for her Jekyll & Hyde in mixed media.

Overall winner Andrew has just graduated with a BA and has been awarded a place to study an MA in fine arts at Edinburgh University.

He said: "I am delighted to have been awarded first prize in this prestigious competition as there are some fantastic artworks in the exhibition."

Councillor Yvonne Gagen, West Lancs Council's portfolio holder for leisure, said: "Congratulations to Andrew on winning first prize and good luck to him for his future career. This is a challenging time for the arts so the fact that this exhibition continues to develop from strength to strength is testament to the passion and commitment of the artists exhibited."

The Open is one of the gallery's most popular exhibitions, with something for everyone to enjoy and an excellent opportunity for would-be art collectors. Artworks range from small-scale watercolours, prints and photography to large scale contemporary oil paintings, 3D works and textiles and can be purchased at reasonable prices.

Visitors can also place their votes for the People's Prize winner and be in with a chance to win a fantastic prize themselves.

If you would like a tour of the Open Exhibition contact the gallery on 01695 571328 or email chapel.gallery@westlancs.gov.uk.

A year on, still no end in sight to probe into hospital bosses

Report by Ollie Cowan

A YEAR has now passed since four bosses at Southport and Ormskirk NHS Hospital Trust were suspended from their roles pending an investigation into whistle-blowing allegations - and still there is no definitive timeline for when an announcement on their futures will be made.

Chief executive Jonathan Parry, chief operating officer Sheilah Finnegan, human resources director Sharon Partington and deputy director of performance Richard McCarthy were all suspended last August following the allegations.

Initially it had been hoped that the investigation, which has now been passed between internal and external watchdogs at the trust, would be finished by April this year.

However, four months on no decision has yet been taken as to whether or not the four will be reinstated.

In April, there were suggestions that the investigation was finally coming to a close but those hopes turned out to be some way off the mark.

To date it is understood that it has cost the trust nearly £1 million in wages for the suspended bosses and their temporary replacements.

Local campaigners Councillors Tony Dawson and Lynne Thompson reacted angrily this week to news that the investigation continues.

They said: "While the NHS was being used dishonestly as a political shuttlecock during the recent Euro referendum, the Southport and Ormskirk Hospital Trust continues to have a huge deficit and problems maintaining quality services across the range.

"We have had record queues of ambulances at our A&E department, issues of excess deaths reported in one area and severe doubts about our ability to retain the contract to provide local district nursing.

"Our local hospital is in dire straits and we need clear and consistent leadership now.

"Heaven knows how much we are diverting from our precious NHS budget into supporting two sets of four peoples' salaries while one set of managers sits at home doing nothing. This is made worse by having to pay to run three separate sets of disciplinary inquiries lasting almost a whole year."

Sue Musson, chair of Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust, said: " The exclusions followed an independent, external investigation into three separate whistle-blowing complaints received by the trust.

"A disciplinary investigation was then commissioned under the trust's disciplinary policy. That investigation is being carried out by another external organisation and is drawing to a conclusion. Once the investigators have reported, the trust will review the appropriate next steps.

" No aspect of the whistle-blowing complaints or investigation relates to issues of patient care or safety."

Former colleagues pay tribute to local government stalwart Geoff

Report by Henry James

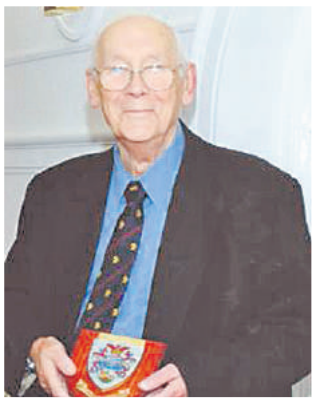
TRIBUTES have been paid to a local government stalwart who has died at the age of 81.

Family, friends and former colleagues gathered at West Lancashire Crematorium in Burscough for the funeral of former borough and county councillor Geoff Roberts from Skelmersdale.

Councillor Ian Moran, leader of West Lancs Council, said: "Geoff had many qualities, including making people feel wanted and giving them confidence in their own abilities. His contribution to society will leave a gap that will be hard to fill and his humour and friendship will certainly be missed by all who knew him."

After completing National Service with the RAF, Geoff trained as a surveyor but couldn't take to the 9 to 5 routine and decided to rejoin the Armed Forces, enjoying a 24-year career in the Royal Engineers and attaining the rank of Regimental Sergeant Major by the time he left in 1982.



Former councillor Geoff Roberts

Back in Civvy Street he served as a borough councillor for Tanhouse ward from 1988 to 2007 and for Ashurst ward from 2008 to 2012. He was also a county councillor for Skelmersdale Central Ward, chairman of the then District Council in 1994-1995 and an Honorary Alderman.

A borough council spokesman commented: "It was with great sadness that the council received the news of the passing of former Labour councillor Geoff Roberts. Our thoughts and prayers go to his wife Jane and his family at this sad time."

Tanhouse borough councillor Robert Pendleton, who served with Geoff, said: "We met in 1986 and struck up a tremendous friendship and worked as a team.

Respected

"Geoff was a great organiser and had a way of getting things done, as a councillor he was very effective."

And borough and county councillor Terry Aldridge added: "Geoff was a hard worker and well-respected."

Geoff had moved to Digmoor in the 1980s and met his wife, Jane, who also served as a borough councillor, through the Labour party.

Jane said: "Geoff loved working for the community."

He leaves children Jeff, Carla and Lynda, step-children Emma and Sarah, grandchildren Zoey, Kyle, Owen and Jessica and great-granddaughter Jessica.

Technical hitch blocks tenants taking up council flood insurance

Report by Henry James

ROSIE Cooper has revealed that a technical problem with the borough council's computer system has prevented council tenants from applying for a tenancy insurance policy to protect their home contents against flooding.

And following the MP's intervention on behalf of a constituent the council are now seeking alternative arrangements.

When trying to make a policy application the tenant was informed by the council that no more applications were being accepted until after September due to problems with the online application form. Tenants were not allowed to complete a paper copy as they are not being processed manually.

After writing to the council to raise these concerns, the MP received a reply acknowledging the IT problems and confirming that they expect to start accepting new tenants on to the scheme in the next couple of weeks.

Rosie Cooper said: "It's not surprising that tenants are looking to sign up for the council tenancy insurance policy when people see homes in Skelmersdale being flooded in June and the devastation of the 2015 Boxing Day floods.

Rosie Cooper MP

"I don't believe tenants should be punished by waiting until the end of September to take out this policy as they were initially told - it's not the tenants who caused the IT system problems.

"Given the uncertainty of when flooding will hit homes next, people just want to feel safe and know they have some protection if they are affected by the devastating effects of flooding.

"I welcome the borough council taking steps to put alternative arrangements in place and trust they will do so with the greatest urgency."

A spokesman for West Lancs Council responded: "Due to problems with a computer system the council is currently unable to accept any new applications to its contents scheme.

"Existing policy holders are not affected by these technical issues, it only affects potential new tenants who wish to take advantage of the scheme.

Advised

"We are working on resolving these issues and hope to be able to start accepting new tenants into the scheme in the next couple of weeks.

"Tenants have been advised that if they need immediate contents insurance cover they should make enquiries with alternative providers. There are many insurance packages available to tenants that they can access by contacting other brokers and insurance companies.

"The council is responsible for keeping its housing stock in good order, and ensuring that repairs and maintenance are kept up to date. Consequently tenants do not need to have buildings insurance in place but are responsible for insuring their home contents."

‘Council’s scooter ban could leave my dad housebound’

Report by Henry James

THE daughter of a Skelmersdale man with a chronic lung disease says he could be left housebound if West Lancs Council force him to move his mobility scooter from a communal area at his home.

Sixty-year-old William Mort suffers from Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) which frequently leaves him breathless and relies on the scooter to get about.

Currently he stores the scooter in a communal area at his home in Firbeck Court but he has received a letter from the council calling on him to move it from there in order to comply with fire regulations.

Under the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) order of 2005, which came into force in October 2006, it is essential that all communal areas are free of obstructions and combustible materials.

This means that residents must not store any items within the communal areas, including communal entrances, hallways, stairwells, landings and drying areas of blocks of flats.

However, Mr Mort’s daughter, Katherine Rimmer is furious about the order, saying her dad has also been told he can’t keep the scooter in his flat and describing it as an infringement of his human rights.

She said: “The council has told my dad he must take the scooter away, it’s like they are taking his human rights away.

“He is going to be housebound, dad will be virtually shut away if he can't keep the scooter.

“It’s the only way he has of getting out of the flat because he has COPD and struggles with his mobility.

“He also has mental health issues and being able to get out and about on his scooter helps to keep him sane.”

In response a council spokesman stated: “In order to comply with the Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service has instructed the council that mobility scooters must not be stored in any part of the communal area of blocks of flats.

“Scooter batteries can be highly combustible and represent a danger to all residents of the block, and safe evacuation would be hindered in the event of a fire.

“We have requested that the scooter is removed from the communal area, in accordance with the advice we have received from Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service.

“The council has never given permission for the scooter to be stored in the communal area. The owners of mobility scooters are responsible for the safe storage of their vehicles. The council is under no obligation to provide a storage area.”

County passes Skem councillor's motion condemning hate crimes

A MOTION put forward by a Skelmersdale councillor condemning racism, xenophobia and hate crimes has been passed at a meeting of Lancashire County Council.

The notice of motion was brought by Skelmersdale West representative, County Councillor Julie Gibson, lead member for community Safety.

She said: “Recent weeks have seen a troubling increase in the reporting of hate crimes and I felt it was important for the county council to publicly state that there is no place for hate crimes of any description here in Lancashire.

“Our county has a reputation for friendliness, diversity and tolerance and a great track record of working together to tackle racism, xenophobia and hate crime.

“I’m proud that the county council has made this statement and hope it will encourage anyone who has been a victim of hate crime to come forward and ask for support.”

County Councillor Jennifer Mein, leader of the county council, said: “At a time when it appears that intolerance in many forms is on the rise, it is crucially important to stand up and say that there is no place for it in Lancashire.

“The county council is here to serve all of the people of Lancashire, in all of our communities, and I’m pleased we have sent out this message.”

County Councillor Julie Gibson

Don't fall victim to opportunist thieves

Report by Henry James

Police warning not to leave windows and doors unlocked during warmer weather

AFTER a rain-sodden June the recent hot weather has been warmly welcomed by most people.

But as well as sunglasses and suntan lotion the sunshine also brings with it an altogether less-welcome arrival - the opportunist thief!

And police in Skelmersdale are warning residents to be on their guard against the increased risk of burglary - both domestic and commercial - in times of hot weather as a result of windows and doors being left unlocked.

A spokesman for Skelmersdale Police said: "Insecure properties are among the major factors in offences of burglary and in hot weather the amount of insecure properties increases massively.

"We are all more likely to leave doors and windows open during the day and many of us will either forget to close and lock these at night or leave them open and ignored.

"Would you leave valuable property in a glass box overnight on your lawn and expect it to be there in the morning?

Common sense

"Criminals know that hot weather increases insecurity and therefore opportunity for theft. For them it is a seasonal advantage.

"Please be aware that criminals go out during the day and at night looking for opportunities.

"We have to make sure we remove all reasonable opportunities for them to steal our property. It's just a change of attitude and adoption of good practices. We have to make common sense common practice.

"Many windows are left open during the day for ventilation but consider that keeping the windows closed and closing the blinds or curtains will probably keep the room cooler.

"During the day only leave doors or windows unlocked that you can see and constantly supervise.

"If you are in a rear garden or yard make sure the front of the house is secure. Don't leave the front door unlocked because you are expecting visitors – you might get an unwanted visitor!"

Youngsters get their teeth into marketing challenge

PRIMARY school pupils from Skelmersdale and Up Holland have been getting their teeth into a project aimed at giving them an insight into the operation of one of the town's major businesses.

The community matters team at multi-national consumer goods company Procter and Gamble, based at Pinfold Place, were approached by SHARES, an organisation of headteachers from local schools, to help run the School Enterprise Scheme with local youngsters.

The initiative ran for five months and pupils were tasked with coming up with an innovative idea for the company's Oral B toothpaste brand with seven local schools taking part.

For stage 1, the planning stage, Procter and Gamble gave each school £250 for the children to make a video and market their idea within their school. And the youngsters visited the Procter and Gamble site along with the Oral B brand team who gave them some tips.

For stage 2, the presentation stage, the children had to pitch their ideas to a panel of judges, including Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Liz Savage and her consort, Councillor Noel Delaney; local businesswoman Ann Bentham and Procter and Gamble's Stella Pickford.

There was then a presentation where the children from the winning schools were each given an electric toothbrush and the runners-up for each stage were given a £10 gift voucher.

Stage 1 winner was Woodland Community Primary, runner-up, St Thomas the Martyr CE, Up Holland; the Stage 2 winner was St Edmund's RC Primary and the runner-up was St Teresa's Catholic Primary.

Julie Jackson, employee relations officer at Procter and Gamble, said: "Procter and Gamble in Skelmersdale were extremely proud to be asked to host this event. The innovation from the children was superb.

"The winning packaging has been sent to the Oral B brand team who are going to mock up the winning design."

Pupils from St Edmund's RC Primary celebrate their win with Suhail Karolia from Shares and Julie Jackson from Procter and Gamble.

Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Liz Savage and her consort Councillor Noel Delaney admire the wall hanging which has just returned to Skelmersdale's E Rooms after featuring in a prize-winning London exhibition

Community group's award-winning artwork gets a civic seal of approval

AN award-winning wall hanging created by members of a community group for individuals with a learning disability has now been given a civic seal of approval by Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Liz Savage.

Cllr. Savage visited the E Rooms in Skelmersdale to see the work of the Learning Stars group. During her visit she was shown the wall hanging depicting the Leeds-Liverpool Canal and inspired by the Victoria & Albert Museum in London, popularly known as the V&A, the world's leading museum of art and design.

The Champion has reported how the Learning Stars, who are also based in Southport and Ormskirk, had entered the national art competition 'Inspired by....' run by the V&A, which is open to any undergraduate artist or group in adult education, inspired by the V&A collection.

The Learning Stars effort won the textiles category of the competition and was displayed at the prestigious Morley Gallery in London.

Julie James-Turner, the group's tutor, who is employed by the Workers' Educational Association showed the mayor the wall hanging which is now back at the E Rooms.

She said: "We were delighted when our group art piece was selected by V&A curators for exhibition in the prestigious Morley Gallery - and completely over the moon when we went on to win in the textiles category of the competition!

"Curators from the V&A said they loved the contemporary feel of the piece."

The mayor also watched and got involved in a couple of Learning Stars workshops during her visit.

Homeless charity launches new counselling service

Report by Henry James

STAFF at Birchwood, a young people's homeless charity in Birch Green, have announced the launch of a new counselling service offering free, confidential and professional support.

The service will be run in partnership with Denise Hare, a local, professionally-qualified counsellor based at Sandy Lane in Skelmersdale.

Denise said: "I met Stella Connell, chief executive of Birchwood at a local health event and was wowed by the incredible work the charity was doing in the local community.

"I have lived my entire life in Skelmersdale and I completely understand the problems many people here face. I believe I am ideally qualified and placed to help and I immediately felt compelled to offer my counselling services, knowing I could really help the charity."

Stella added: "I realised this was a golden opportunity as there is a huge gap in counselling services for young people and the partnership with Denise would fill this gap.

"We therefore immediately initiated a pilot project which has proved immensely beneficial both to Birchwood service users and the community at large. As a result of this success we will be rolling the project out and embedding counselling into the offer of services to young people in the future.

Stella Connell and Denise Hare

"The wonderful thing about our counselling initiative is that it allows young people in crisis to really look at their issues in great depth, and gain a more confident perspective.

"We know from the extremely positive results we have already seen that, for many people, talking to a counsellor face-to-face can be invaluable in helping them to make a sustained positive change to their lives - and positive change is what Birchwood and the Denise Hare Counselling Service is all about."

Denise offers counselling to a range of individuals and she says she has achieved 'life changing results'.

For more details about the counselling service contact Denise on 07740 463311. For more information about Birchwood Charity and the services they provide ring 01695 717115 or email info@birchwood-centre.co.uk.

MANAGEMENT at global engineering group, Trelleborg, which has a base in Skelmersdale, have praised their employee Jimmy Lloyd for his role in helping Skem Men-Aces disability football to win the Queen's Award for Voluntary Service.

A spokesman for the company said: "Trelleborg is proud that employee Jimmy Lloyd, alongside his colleagues at Skem Men-Aces, has recently been awarded The Queen's Award for Voluntary Service, the MBE for volunteer groups."

Jimmy, a shift syntactic production lead at Trelleborg's offshore operation, and a coach at the Men-Aces, commented: "Winning the award was a complete shock and I have been on cloud nine since. Being involved with Skem Men-Aces brings its own rewards and I have made so many close friends. This award has given everyone involved a great sense of pride."

Keep our streets clean this summer

Council's 'pick it up or pick up a fine' warning on litter as holiday season gets underway

DON'T be a litter lout this summer - or you could be facing a fine!

That's the message from West Lancs Council as the holiday season gets underway in earnest.

The authority says that litter problems increase during the summer when people spend more time outdoors. And while most people don't drop litter, a small minority do, causing an eyesore for everyone - as well as committing an offence.

Many roadside verges are littered with fast food cartons, bottles and other rubbish irresponsibly thrown from cars and vans. And pavements and parks fall foul to plastic bottles, drink cartons, sweet wrappers, burger bags, cigarette stubs and other litter.

Councillor Kevin Wilkie, the council's portfolio holder for street scene, said: "At this time of year we find even more litter than usual on roadsides and pavements. So now the holidays are underway we are asking people to make sure they don't drop litter. Let's all enjoy the summer and take responsibility for our litter."

And Councillor Kevin Wright, portfolio holder for health, added: "We can all help by using the litter or recycling bins, or taking our rubbish home. The council's enforcement officers make regular patrols and can issue £75 fixed penalty notices to offenders who drop litter or throw it from cars. Offenders could also face court action."

Councillor Kevin Wilkie

Councillor Kevin Wright

Improving the cleanliness of the environment is a priority for the council and litter/dog waste bins are provided plus special on-street recycling bins in town centres.

The amount of waste collected from the bins and picked up from the streets and public places adds up to around 70 tonnes each week – or about seven bin-wagon loads.

Around £1million each year is spent by the council on keeping the borough's streets and pavements clean.

Environmental enforcement officers carry out uniformed patrols and issue fixed penalty notices to offenders.

Fly-tipping is an even more serious criminal offence and offenders can face fines of up to £50,000 for dumping household, commercial or industrial waste.

Scheme offers chance to boost mobile coverage

ROSIE Cooper is encouraging community groups to apply for a free indoor mobile coverage scheme.

The West Lancs MP is urging rural community hubs, such as pubs, village halls and community venues, to apply to Vodafone's Community Indoor Sure Signal (CISS) programme, aimed at providing a service to communities where the signal is not very strong, with up to 100 venues able to benefit.

Ms Cooper said: "Mobile technology plays an ever greater part in our day-to-day lives. As coverage can still be limited in rural areas this new scheme is one way for community venues to improve access to the mobile network for residents. "

To access the service a venue will need to have an unlimited broadband package with download speeds of 4Mbps and upload speeds of 2Mbps and a domestic plug-in power point. For more information visit blog.vodafone.co.uk.

Police commissioner urges Home Secretary to tackle sex abuse

Call for more resources as county's sexual offences figures rise

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE'S police and crime commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, has written to new Home Secretary Amber Rudd, urging her to tackle child sex abuse as new figures reveal a huge increase in sex crimes reported across the country.

It comes as Office for National Statistics (ONS) figures revealed sex crimes have risen by 21% nationwide and by 33% in Lancashire in the last year.

In numbers this means there were 2,656 sexual offences recorded in Lancashire and 106,378 across England and Wales between April 1, 2015 and March 31, 2016.

A similar rise in sex offences against children is shown in the official data, with a significant number of those crimes taking place wholly or partly online.

Clive Grunshaw said: "What I know is that mobile technology such as smart phones, social media and online gaming are responsible for many of the crimes reported against children. The government current efforts in this area are falling woefully short. Cuts to police forces, schools, victim services and social services up and down the country are not helping us tackle this major issue.

"I want to see the Home Office say enough is enough to cutting public services that work to protect children. The government needs to ensure there are more resources to help keep young people safe and, just as important, to ensure our services for victims of crime are protected for the future."

Mr Grunshaw recently launched specialist support services for children who are victims of sexual abuse and has already seen a steady flow of young people seek help to cope with the impact of their abuse.

He said: "What we've learned too is that those who are abused are more likely to become abusers in the future without the right support so we need to act now to prevent this from happening."

A total of £1m has also been invested in the Lancashire force to help investigate non-recent cases, which make up a significant proportion of sexual offences against under-16s reported to Lancashire Police.

Overall crime in Lancashire has risen by 4.9% on the previous year, nationally the increase is 8.7%. These figures do not include fraud, which is recorded nationally. The overall rise in police recorded crime for England and Wales including fraud is 8.1%.

Campaigner hails council fracking motion

...but Tories dismiss it as 'pointless'

by Danielle Thompson

Councillor Maureen Mills (centre) with anti-fracking campaigners in Halsall

'A GOOD starting point'.

That was anti-fracking campaigner Councillor Maureen Mills' verdict on West Lancs Council's decision to grant her motion calling on the authority to help protect the borough from potentially being subjected to the controversial oil and gas extraction process.

However, Conservative councillors described the motion as "pointless."

Cllr. Mills, a member of the Halsall Against Fracking group, called for the council to oppose the controversial process – as well as underground coal gasification and coal bed methane extraction – until they have been proven to be safe both in the short and long term.

The motion also urged the council to call on the Liverpool City Region Combined Authority and the other Liverpool City Region local authorities to pass a similar motion.

Neighbouring Sefton Council recently passed a similar motion.

Cllr. Mills said: "I firmly believe the motions passed by Sefton MBC and West Lancashire BC are a starting point at a place in time when vast areas of both boroughs within the PEDL licence area are undergoing a seismic survey for Aurora Energy Resources.

"The motion's conditions relating to safety, regulation and the short and long-term impacts of this industry are very clear and this can only be extremely positive for residents in the survey area and beyond who are contacting us because they are extremely anxious now that they are seeing the survey workers in the fields and on our roads."

Conservative councillors who were present at the meeting refrained from the debate on the motion and abstained from voting.

Councillor Eddie Pope, Conservative spokesman on planning, said: "Following advice from the borough solicitor, the Conservative group had genuine concerns over the wording of the motion and the very real possibility of it compromising councillors' positions in relation to future fracking applications.

"Our members took the sensible decision to refrain from the debate on the motion and abstained.

"The motion was completely pointless and an example of the worst kind of political posturing. It was certainly not in the interests of the residents of West Lancashire."

Champion LETTERS to the Editor

Clare House, 166 Lord Street, Southport PR9 0QA
tel 01704 392 400 email editor@champnews.com

Why are they dismantling the heart of our village?

WHAT is it about Westhead at the moment? Firstly we see the closure of the Halton Castle public house, formerly a popular meeting place for people both within and outside the village.

Another social amenity, the bowling green attached to the pub, will close at the end of the current season.

Now we hear that the village hall is to be sold-off. It certainly seems as if the heart of the community is being gradually dismantled.

The village hall has long been a focal point for residents and has been used by a variety groups such as Beavers, gardening club, craft club, martial arts and children's playgroup.

Additionally it has been used for village fundraisers such as The Carnival Association Christmas Fair and plant sales for the Scout group,as well as being hired out for children's birthday parties.

The knock-on effect of the closure is clear for all to see.

How can community spirit and social cohesion be engendered when there are no facilities for residents to meet together?

So what will be next to go one wonders? Will Westhead Carnival survive?

The future looks bleak if Westhead simply becomes a main road between Ormskirk and Skelmersdale with just a few houses on either side.

Someone, somewhere has a lot to answer for!

Steve and Pam Walker, Westhead residents

Action needed to improve road safety on Long Lane

ROAD safety on Long Lane in Aughton as long been a safety issue and is not helped by two main reasons.

One is congestion through Ormskirk resulting in motorists using Long Lane to avoid the town centre during peak periods.

The second is that motorists from outside the district are now using Aughton Park railway station to travel into Liverpool and parking their cars on the road opposite the station. This is causing further safety issues with parked cars in this narrow road.

This problem has been raised several times resulting in the council promising action, that has never materialised.

It is inevitable that if this situation is not improved it will result is a serious accident.

I have forwarded my comments to West Lancs Council, and the parish council hoping for action to improve this serious situation.

David Burtchaell, Long Lane, Aughton

Let's hope new cycle route users don't want to wheel their bikes in Concourse!

I WAS stopped on Wednesday, July 27 while wheeling my bike through the Concourse shopping centre and told this was now banned.

Deciding to write to the Champion I see Bill Sealey's letter (Letters, July 27) is my letter almost word for word.

I also read in the paper the proposal for the new £500,000 cycle route which has the town centre as a draw to help the town's economy. I just hope the cyclists don't want to wheel their bikes into the Concourse or use the useless bike stands.

Mr Angry, by email (name & address supplied)

Thanks to my hospital car park 'Good Samaritan'

I WOULD just like, if I may, to say a few words of thanks through the Champion letters page to someone who helped me recently. It may not seem like much but it meant a lot.

I just wanted to say a huge thank-you again to a very kind lady and her son who I had to ask for a contribution towards my parking ticket at Ormskirk Hospital on Thursday, July 28.

I never carry much cash on me as I assumed I could use my debit card. But unfortunately I had already put the parking ticket in the machine before I realised the card payment machine wasn't in use and there was no obvious button to press to reject the ticket.

I had my young son with me and was in such a flap and felt terrible asking the lady if she could give me the extra money that I needed but she did so without even hesitating and I am very, very grateful.

I would also like to apologise to those others in the queue waiting as I am aware that this might have taken them over the 'free 20 minutes.'

Sorry and thanks for your patience everyone.

Beccy Tomlinson, by email

Stay 'swim safe' this summer

I AM writing to request your readers' help in raising awareness of water safety during the school summer holidays and the warmer weather.

The Mineral Products Association (MPA) is supporting the water safety campaigns being run by other organisations such as the RNLI, RLSS and the Fire and Rescue Services. Collectively, we do not want to discourage members of the public from enjoying the water but would like people to be aware of the risks and choose to swim in areas that are safe.

On average, there are circa 400 accidental drownings each year spread across the UK. Many of these tragic deaths are in open water such as quarry lakes, reservoirs, rivers and canals. All too often, these tragedies occur when people are enjoying a leisure activity or are engaged in what they perceive as harmless fun. The tragic death recently of a 19-year- old boy, who drowned whilst swimming with friends in a former quarry lake, is a tragic reminder of the importance of these messages.

Man-made quarry lakes or reservoirs can be particularly unsuitable for swimmers and paddlers. Often they can be extremely deep, have sudden changes in water depth, be difficult to exit and conceal a range of hazards such as pumps, entangling weeds, rocks and old machinery.

Significantly, the water in quarry lakes and reservoirs can be extremely cold even on a hot summer's day. At 15C and below, the body can experience cold water shock when immersed in water, this results in a sudden, involuntary inhalation of water into the lungs which can be deadly. The cold water can also cause even strong swimmers to tire quickly, become breathless and potentially disorientated.

With more than 800 active and thousands of former quarries spread across the UK, it is likely that many readers will live within a few miles of one. A large number of these sites will have lakes or similar water-filled voids.

Remember that warning signs and fences are there to help protect you and your family.

Elizabeth Clements, Mineral Products Association

What about negative effect of Downing Street duo's deeds?

COUNCILLOR David Westley, leader of the Conservative group on West Lancs Borough Council, berates the Labour administration for having achieved nothing - as he sees it - but fails to mention the dramatic negative effect of the deeds of his erstwhile lords and masters, the Old Etonian Rich Boys at No.10 and No.11.

Glowing report for county's schools

THE performance of Lancashire schools is among the best in the UK, according to a recent report.

Lancashire County Council's end-of-year inspection summary shows that the majority of children in the county attend a primary or a secondary school judged to be good or outstanding by Ofsted.

The percentage of primary schools rated as good or outstanding is nearly 96%. The latest national average is 95%.

Secondary schools in the county are also performing well with more than 78% rated as good or outstanding, above the latest national average of 77%.

Lancashire's performance is also better than the regional averages of 92% and 72% respectively.

The report also includes an assessment of leadership and management of each school, carried out by the authority, demonstrating that nearly 96% of primary schools and more than 83% of secondary schools are performing to really high standards with the capacity to improve even more.

County Councillor Matthew Tomlinson, Lancashire's cabinet member for children, young people and schools, said: "I'm really proud of these results. They clearly show that our primary and secondary schools are doing well, outperforming the national average and this is definitely something worth celebrating.

Improved

"The results have also improved slightly on last year. They are a testament to our school staff, governors, parents and, of course, the children themselves.

"It's great that the overall performance of schools in Lancashire is up there with the best in the country but we certainly won't rest on our laurels and will strive to improve our performance even further."

County Councillor Matthew Tomlinson

Young gardeners sow the seeds of success

GREEN-fingered young gardeners from across West Lancs celebrated their achievements at the Show What You Grow festival of school gardening.

A total of 65 pupils from 10 schools in the borough exhibited school-grown produce, home-made scarecrows and displays of drawings, paintings and photos of their gardening work at the recent event at West Lancashire College in Ormskirk.

Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Liz Savage opened the day and the children enthusiastically took part in activities such as making a veggie creature, an allotment quiz and filling out a Grow Your Own activity book.

After lunch, the children took to the stage to give presentations about their gardening clubs and the day ended with a prizegiving.

The event was organised by the Community Food Growing Project of West Lancs CVS in conjunction with West Lancs Allotment Federation and West Lancashire College, and funded by Upholland Tawd Vale Lions.

The Community Food Growing Project is funded by Lancashire County Council as part of the Active West Lancs programme.

Chrissy Quirk, school secretary at Newburgh CE Primary School, said: "The children created a wonderful display to showcase our gardening activities and they also gave a short presentation about the fun activities they had been doing at school. They had a fantastic day and won the overall award for the best display.

" They also enjoyed meeting other schoolchildren and sharing ideas with one another about how to make the best of our garden and allotment areas."

Care home residents welcome unusual new 'neighbours'

RESIDENTS of Abbey Wood Lodge care home in Ormskirk have welcomed some unusual new neighbours, including elephants, rhinos, hippos, gorillas and ostriches!

But there's no danger of the newcomers disturbing the peace in the area - they are all life-sized metal sculptures residing at the newly-opened Pangea Sculptures across the way in County Road.

The new showroom was officially opened by Mayor of West Lancs, Councillor Liz Savage, and managing director Ian Unsworth invited residents of the home to join them for the occasion.

Set up two years ago when Ian visited Africa and bought some sculptures for his home, the business made the news last year when thieves broke into a shipping container on their original site on the Burscough industrial estate and stole 100 two-foot high mini giraffe sculptures.

Abbey Wood Lodge residents and staff with one of the Pangea sculptures.

And the owners of Abbey Wood Lodge were so impressed with their new neighbours they invested in sculptures of their own including an elephant, ostrich and two gorillas, which are now sited at the front of the home.

Lesley Malone, events organiser at the home said: "Our residents enjoy having our new neighbours across the road and now we have our own animals which they can show to their families and friends. A couple have commented that it's just like having our own safari park!"

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service Merseyside & surrounding areas and manager Louis Richards agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Louis a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

County's roads are getting better says highways chief

COUNTY council highways chiefs claim that a long-term plan brought in to improve the state of Lancashire's roads has led to marked improvements, despite major damage caused by flooding during the winter.

New figures released by the authority show that the percentage of the highways network needing maintenance has fallen by 35% over the last two years, with the condition of the roads improving across all 12 of Lancashire's districts.

It follows the introduction of Lancashire County Council's Transport Asset Management Plan (TAMP). The 15-year plan focuses on improving ageing infrastructure with a reduced budget.

A video survey of the highways network carried out over the last 12 months provided forward, backward, footpath and carriageway facing images at 50cm intervals across all of Lancashire's highways.

County Councillor John Fillis, cabinet member for highways and transport, said: "The results are very encouraging with evidence that we've made marked improvements over the last two years. People may not always notice or perceive that there has been an improvement in the roads. Last winter was particularly tough on the network but these results show that our more targeted approach is paying dividends in improving the overall state of our highways."

The TAMP prioritises revamping particular parts of the network during each of three phases, which will result in everything being improved, and maintenance backlogs slashed, by 2029/30.

The first five-year phase is focusing on improving A, B and C roads and pavements, the second phase will target residential and rural unclassified roads, and the third phase will tackle bridges, street lights and traffic signals.

Council Plan on course to deliver says leader

WEST Lancs Council chiefs say the authority is making good headway in achieving the aims of its Council Plan.

The three main priorities detailed in the plan, adopted last October, are the economy, the environment and the borough's health and wellbeing.

Councillor Ian Moran, council leader and portfolio holder for transformation and economic regeneration, said: "It is a privilege to lead this council to deliver our ambitions for West Lancashire. But, of course, progress and development in West Lancashire is not all down to the council and we work closely with our partners, agencies, other organisations and volunteers to make a difference for all."

On the economy the council say the aim is retain and grow the number of local jobs, increase skills levels and encourage business and growth.

Projects they are working on towards that aim include the Skelmersdale Town Centre Regeneration Scheme which they believe took a step forward in 2015 with the approval of the planning application by St Modwen.

The scheme, a joint project with St Modwen and the Homes and Communities Agency, proposes to create a new high street link between West Lancashire College and the existing town centre, a multi-screen cinema, restaurants, bars and retail facilities and is expected to bring in excess of 500 new jobs. And although it is currently subject to a legal challenge, the council has reiterated its commitment to the scheme.

Meanwhile the council has also adopted the Ormskirk Town Centre Strategy with the aim of promoting "vibrant and successful future" for the town.

A Town Centre Management Group, made up of the council, Ormskirk Community Partnership, representatives of the business community, Edge Hill University and Edge Hill Students Union, has been created to oversee the project.

With regards to the environment, the council has worked with Lancashire County Council to complete the Moor Street improvement scheme, and with community regeneration specialist Keepmoat the building of 42 new homes on the Firbeck estate in Skemersdale commenced.

The council has also worked with community safety partners on initiatives such as the Mischief Night/Bonfire Night programme "to help ensure our borough remains a safe place to live work and visit".

The council has said the success of community safety initiatives is highlighted by Citizens' Survey findings which show that 79% of residents feel safe and secure within West Lancashire.

And the authority has also highlighted "significant steps" which it claims will help improve the health and wellbeing of residents, including a £150,000 refurbishment of Park Pool and creating a £2.3m strategic investment reserve for work on major projects, including assisting in developing a new sports centre in Skelmersdale.

Poachers' ban extended to whole of county

The banned trio, James Reid, Liam Doherty and Neil Walsh

THREE men from Sefton who were banned from entering parts of West Lancashire after being caught using dogs to hunt hares have now been punished further after they violated the police order.

Report by Danielle Thompson

Liam Doherty, 26, from Crosby and James Reid, 31 and Neil Walsh, 29, both from Bootle, have now been told they can't enter the entire county of Lancashire after they breached their Criminal Behaviour Order (CBO).

As reported in the Champion, the trio were spotted in January this year using dogs to poach hares on farmland in the Leverhulme Estate.

As a result, they were given the 18-month banning order at Ormskirk Magistrates Court under the Hunting Act 2004, which restricted them from entering a 36,000-acre area of Downholland and Halsall.

However, the following month, all three were found on land in Burscough, outside their prohibited area, but were summonsed for daytime poaching offences.

In April, Walsh was found in Altcar with his dog in the prohibited area.

In June, Walsh pleaded guilty to both offences and Reid and Doherty pleaded guilty to their poaching offence.

Lancashire Police applied for an extension of their existing Criminal Behaviour Order which Preston Magistrates court saw fit to approve.

Now Neil Walsh is banned from all of Lancashire county with any sight-hound unless travelling in a motor car on the motorway network; or being with any person with a sight-hound in Lancashire for a period of five years.

Reid and Doherty have the same conditions for period of three years.

All received significant fines in addition.

A spokesperson for Lancashire Police said: "This is the third CBO Lancashire Police have been granted and sends the strongest message to poachers and hare coursers that their barbaric behaviour will not be tolerated and we will use all the tools at our disposal."

Breastfeeding challenge to new mums

NEW mums are being urged to take the Six Week Breastfeeding Challenge this summer.

Lancashire County Council and the county's Infant Feeding Partnership are launching the campaign for a second year to try and boost the county's breastfeeding rates, which are lower than the national average.

New mums who have already chosen to breastfeed are being asked to challenge themselves to continue for at least the first six weeks. Evidence shows that the longer a mum breastfeeds for, the greater the health benefits for both mum and baby.

A free web-based county council app will help mums track their progress through the challenge, provide answers to the most commonly asked breastfeeding questions and access to support and guidance, log feeds and nappy changes easily and read tips from other mums.

Essential

For support mums can speak to their midwife, health visitor, peer supporter, local infant feeding team or local children's centre to find out what is going on in their area.

Katie Wharton, infant feeding co-ordinator at Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust, said: "By taking the Six Week Challenge, Lancashire's mums can provide their newborn with a fantastic start in life Breast milk provides essential antibodies which keep your baby happy and healthy.

"Lancashire County Council's free web app will help mothers on their journey as it allows them to keep an eye on their little one's progress and also offers extra support features to help them complete the challenge."

For more details and to sign up free go to www.breastfeedingchallenge.co.uk.

Support available for stressed out students

THE end of the academic year can often be a stressful time for students at university, college or school - but help is at hand.

Officials at Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust's Mindsmatter service are encouraging students in the county to get in touch if they are feeling low or need a bit of support.

Although for many exam results are a cause for celebration, for others it can be extremely hard if they haven't got the outcome they were hoping for.

The Mindsmatter service is available to offer help and support for those who may be feeling anxious or concerned about their future. The service provides a variety of talking therapies for anyone aged 16 years and over experiencing problems such as stress, depression and anxiety.

Phil Gooden, Mindsmatter service manager at the trust, said: "University can be a challenging time for many students. For some it can involve finishing university and not receiving the results they anticipated and for others it may be facing the stress of what to do next.

"Around one in four people will experience a form of mental health problem during their lifetime so it's important that students are aware of the support available. We want to encourage any students concerned to contact their local team for advice and support."

The service can be accessed via an online referral form, by post, telephone or by visiting your GP. For more information and to access the online self-referral form visit www.lancashire-care.nhs.uk/Mindsmatter or contact the West Lancs Mindsmatter service on 01695 684177.

Quality award for sexual health service

LANCASHIRE Care NHS Foundation Trust's Contraception and Sexual Health Service (CaSH) has been commended for providing an inclusive service for Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) communities.

More than half of LGBT people in Lancashire feel that this has an impact on the way that they are treated by health service providers. And the trusts's CaSH team is one of the recipients to have obtained the full LGBT Quality Mark.

Dr Wendy Higson, clinical lead for the service, said: "We're absolutely delighted to have received the quality mark for the service we provide to the people of Lancashire."

The Chapel Gallery in Ormskirk

Chance for children to get creative

CHILDREN can enjoy free summer holiday arts activities at the Chapel Gallery in Ormskirk and the Sandy Lane Centre in Skelmersdale.*

The fun creative sessions run by West Lancs Council's arts development service are free but places are limited and must be booked in advance by contacting the Chapel Gallery on 01695 571328 or by email at chapel.gallery@westlancs.gov.uk.

Children aged between eight and 11 will be working with professional artists Sarah Jane Richards and Gaenor Hall to investigate simple fun animation and illustration techniques.

Sessions take place between 10.30am and 12.30pm at the Chapel Gallery, Ormskirk, on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 9 and 10 and Tuesday and Wednesday, August 23 and 24.

Meanwhile Unit 63 at the Sandy Lane Centre, Skelmersdale will host the same activities between 10.30am and 12.30pm today (Wednesday, August 3), Tuesday and Wednesday, August 16 and 17 and Tuesday and Wednesday, August 30 and 31.

For older children aged 11 to 16 the gallery is organising a four-day activity in which they can develop animation ideas that will influence the artwork to be displayed in the animation exhibition at the Chapel Gallery in September.

Children will work with artist Sarah Jane Palmer and learn how to make 3D sculptures and inflatables, silhouette film animation, silhouette puppets and how to do storyboarding for animation and film.

The sessions are from Tuesday, August 9 to Friday, August 12 from 10.30am to 4pm.

WiFi on buses is all well and good but I long for the old ferry steamers

RECENTLY I had occasion to travel across the water to Birkenhead and since I was being met outside Hamilton Square station, it made sense to get there via the Mersey Railway (as was).

The journey from Liverpool Central was quite uneventful and I got there in plenty of time, but apparently there was trouble on't line twixt James Street and Hamilton Square and we were informed that consequently all trains were subject to delay and/or cancellation.

Not that this actually affected my journey, but waiting for my lift I had time to observe the very much changed scene from what I remember it, not all that many years ago. And it occurred to me that just supposing whatever trouble there was with the trains got worse and I ended up back at Hamilton Square with no trains at all, I had no idea of how I would have found an alternative route back.

I know, there are plenty of cross-river buses and I know you can catch them from the bus station – which wasn't the case in my youth - but where was the said bus station?

Of course I would probably quite easily have found it and all would have been well, but as a boy this would not have been any problem at all. I could simply have followed my nose downhill to the Woodside ferry terminus and more or less simply have stepped on a boat.

Back then Woodside could very accurately have been described as a public transport interchange (had that word been invented). In one place you had a ferry service to Liverpool every few minutes, a busy bus station with buses to all points on the Wirral and out to Chester, plus a main-line railway station from which you could even get to London!

The British Rail station closed some years ago; the bus station is now no more than a small collection of shelters mainly serving just the local area; and the ferry? Well, there IS still a ferry, kind of, though it's now hourly and part of a pleasant river cruise, rather than a practical service to Liverpool.

What, I wondered, has happened to us as a people? Oh yes, we now have a second Mersey tunnel to speed private cars on their cross-river journeys, and there is a perfectly good bus service if you happen to be in the right place.

And of course there is still the (normally) very reliable Merseyrail service, but then that was always there anyway.

But what about all this 'Save the Planet' and protect the polar bears malarky? Odd, isn't it, that while more and more folk are keen to jump aboard the 'cut greenhouse gasses' bandwagon, this enthusiasm stops short of not using a car.

Interestingly, the car that met me was a hybrid (petrol and electric) and its proud owner told me it did around 65mpg. And naturally, the self-righteous folk who can afford to buy these machines totally forget the manufacturing processes that go into making the batteries, or the cost to the planet of transporting the finished green machine; or the eventual cost of disposing of said batteries when they clap out.

Anyway, enough of my high horse, back to the past. As a boy I loved those Birkenhead ferries. They were run by Birkenhead Corporation with civic pride, and best of all, as I remember them, they were genuine steamers, with long, narrow red and black funnels.

And to me, even then, they were obviously old. My favourite was 'Thurstaston' - I had no idea who or what Thurstaston might have been or was, but it certainly was a name to conjure with. Also, Thurstaston and its sister ships departed every few minutes - turn up and go!

And as I was only a lad I remember too the introduction of the first, brand-new, diesel ferry, which I thought was smashing too, little realising that ultimately it spelled doom for my beloved steamers.

But that's life I suppose. You can even get WiFi on buses and underground stations now – so that's alright then!

We've got it covered!

MP calls for end to 'confusion' over school term-time holiday fines

ROSIE Cooper has hit out at what she called the "confusion" over the rules on term-time holiday fines, how they are applied and who is responsible for them.

The West Lancs MP's latest outburst follows her criticism of a recent case concerning one of her constituents which saw three adults fined £60 each for taking one child on holiday in term time.

Ms Cooper described the use of fines in this way as appearing to be "nothing more than a money-making racket."

Since then she has raised her concerns directly with the local education authority, Lancashire County Council, and with education ministers in a parliamentary debate on School Penalty Fines and Authorised Absence.

However the county council have said the rules around unauthorised term-time absences are quite clear and that schools are only able to authorise absences in "exceptional circumstances."

Ms Cooper though believes there is a fundamental lack of transparency, fairness and consistency in how the fines are being applied.

She said: "There is an unbelievable amount of finger-pointing and 'it's not us guv' when it comes to fining parents for taking their children on holiday in term time.

"On several occasions, in letters, in meetings and in a parliamentary debate, I've asked who is responsible for the current rules and how they are applied. Between government ministers, local authorities and schools they each blame someone else disowning any responsibility.

"Schools are enforcing the rules set down in the education authority's code of conduct. The education authority is acting in line with government policy. Round and round we go. Never getting to the end.

"This situation is made worse by the fact that depending on which school you attend and in which education authority you are in the rules are applied differently.

"We've reached a point at which this system is in chaos.

"I'm not advocating that children should be taken out of school in term time. There just needs to be clarity on what the rules are and the consequences of breaking these rules which is done in a transparent way and applied fairly and consistently.

"The present farce needs to be brought to an end and quickly."

County Councillor Matthew Tomlinson, Lancashire's cabinet member for children, young people and schools, responded: "The rules around unauthorised term-time absence are quite clear. In line with government guidelines, schools are only able to authorise absence in exceptional circumstances, taking each request on its merits.

"The decision to authorise absence or not rests with the head teacher of the particular school and penalty notices are an enforcement option that are available to schools and issued on their behalf by the local authority.

"We encourage schools to work closely with parents to reduce unauthorised absences. Our aim throughout is not to punish parents but to ensure that children and young people attend school and receive a good education."

Chief Coroner gives backing to call for 'Hillsborough Law'

Report by Tom Martin

'Public money should be spent on helping people get to the truth'

HOPES of introducing a 'Hillsborough Law' have been given a huge boost after a proposal of giving bereaved families equal legal funding was backed by the Chief Coroner.

Peter Thornton, QC, sided with Labour MP Andy Burnham who is campaigning for more to be done to support families when they have to go through legal inquests.

After the momentous Hillsborough verdict in April, which ruled that the 96 Liverpool fans were unlawfully killed in the 1989 tragedy, calls have been made for a change in law.

Mr Thornton said: "There are cases where legal aid should, if possible, be made available for families, particularly where one or more organs of the state are represented."

Mr Burnham, who represents the Leigh constitency in Parliament but is originally from Aintree, has hailed Mr Thornton's comments as "heavyweight backing" for the ' Hillsborough Law' campaign.

He said: "It is wrong that the police and other public bodies are able to throw around public money like confetti hiring top QCs when bereaved families have to scratch around for whatever support they can get. Far too often, inquests are intimidating and distressing for families still raw with grief.

"Public money should be spent on helping people get to the truth, not on protecting backs in the public sector.

"Natural justice requires that Parliament should call time on this gross unfairness and require parity of funding and a level playing field for bereaved families.

"I have got great respect for the way our new Prime Minister supported the Hillsborough families, but the job is far from done. It is essential that we continue to act on all the lessons learned and make Hillsborough a moment of real change when Parliament rebalances the legal system in favour of ordinary people.

"The Hillsborough families strongly support this change in the law to spare other families the pain that they have endured at the hands of the police. Labour will call a new debate on our proposed 'Hillsborough Law' in the Lords in the autumn.

"The Chief Coroner's support for our cause has significantly strengthened it. We call on the government to respect natural justice and work with us to make this essential change."

Dementia campaigner champions more support for carers

Report by Danielle Thompson

A CAMPAIGNER who had a successful career in the music business until his mother developed vascular dementia spoke to staff at the Lancashire Care NHS Foundation Trust about the experiences of carers of people living with dementia and what health professionals could do to understand their needs.

Tommy Whitelaw was guest speaker at the Dementia Awareness and Make a Pledge Event at The Harbour, the trust's mental health hospital in Blackpool, held as part of its commitment to ensure people with dementia feel understood, valued and able to contribute to their community.

Tommy called on health and social care professionals to reflect on the lived experience of people affected by dementia and identify actions they could take back and apply in their everyday practice.

He said: "As a full-time carer, I often felt lonely and isolated, and found accessing services difficult.

"Once, we reached a crisis when I didn't think I could go on any longer. I went to a local health organisation for help and was told to go home and phone an 0800 number.

"I was standing there, crying, holding my mum's hands, asking someone to help us, and they gave me a post-it sticker with a phone number on it. It felt like nobody was helping us."

The trust's Jo Blofeld with dementia campaigner Tommy White

Jo Blofeld, patient and carer experience lead in adult community services at the trust, said: "Tommy's story is a real, powerful one and underscores the importance and value of listening to people's lived experience of services to find ways to improve them. It is this very ethos and patient experience that we as a trust are committed to threading throughout our organisation."

Douglas Music announce new season of Saturday concerts

DOUGLAS Music, Parbold, has announced its 2016-17 season of Saturday concerts featuring concert stars from piano soloists to opera stars, instrumental ensembles to brass bands in a wide-range of musical styles.

The concerts take place in the Arena Auditorium at Lancashire's Parbold Village Hall, and offer a rare opportunity to hear some of today's greatest musicians in an intimate setting.

The first half of the season includes two outstanding concert pianists. In October, Noriko Ogawa, a long established friend of Douglas Music, will perform an appealing programme of familiar melodies reflecting on life and love. Also, in the same week, in association with the National Autistic Society, she will present a concert for carers of autistic persons. Later, she will give a performance for local schoolchildren in Douglas Music's Pied Piper series.

In November, Spain's 'number one', young virtuoso pianist, Javier Perianes, makes his Parbold debut with a classic concert that includes popular classical works from his homeland.

The sound of brass resonates throughout this Autumn when the ever-popular Wingates Brass band presents a Disney Extravaganza for all the family.

In December, Prince Bishop's Brass, an ensemble of five from the North East, will herald in Christmas with a traditional evening of brass pieces from all ages and styles with a little audience participation.

To open the season on Saturday, September 24 at 7.45 p.m. in Parbold Village Hall, Douglas Music welcomes back Australian born guitarist, Craig Ogden, a household name to listeners of Classic FM and Radio 3 and one of the most acclaimed classical guitarists of his generation with a string of No.1 CDs to his name.

For this programme, he teams up with his opera-star wife, mezzo soprano, Claire Bradshaw. The duo has twice toured Australia and have performed in South Africa. They appear regularly at festivals in the UK. Their programme blends classical works by Henry Purcell, Franz Schubert and Joaquin Rodrigo with some of the standards of Jerome Kern and George Gershwin. Claire's operatic roles have included the title role in Carmenat the Royal Albert Hall in Raymond Gubbay's acclaimed production, which received rave reviews.

Noriko Ogawa

Douglas Music is supported by the Arts Council, England, Lancashire County Council and West Lancashire Borough Council.

Celebrate the musical legacy of The Big O at resort's theatre

THIS year marks Roy Orbison's 80th Birthday, and to mark this special occasion Southport Theatre are presenting a new show celebrating The Big O's musical legacy this Friday (August 5) at 7.30pm.

Barry Steele takes you on a specially revamped musical journey in time from the early Sun years right through to the late 80's and he also includes a special tribute to the time Roy spent with The Traveling Wilburys, and Bono.

Add to the mix Barry Steele's friends who will be celebrating and performing the music of the stars who toured and performed with Roy.

Also for the first time in Southport, Thank ABBA For The Music is coming to the town.

They will be at Southport theatre this Saturday (August 6) at 7.30pm.

The seven-piece live band is backed throughout by interactive video projection which, at regular points, depicts key moments throughout ABBA's musical career together with clips of interviews from celebrities and music experts alike.

The show features all of ABBA's greatest and most memorable hits.

O most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, faithful Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity, O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother, O Holy Mary Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succour me in my necessity.

The Isuzu D-Max has been modified by Arctic Trucks to cope with extreme off road situations

The Defender is dead and will not rise from the ashes of British motoring history

Life On Cars
DAVID SIMISTER
www.lifeoncars.co.uk

THE DEFENDER is dead. You might have heard rumours to the contrary, but there are no billionaires plotting to put Britain's favourite 4x4 back into production. Land Rover's said no, and that's that.

Which probably isn't a bad thing. The Defenders I see at car shows these days are custom made specials blighted with ridiculously oversized alloys, interiors lined with leather and precious metals and sound systems so powerful they can be picked up on a seismograph. Hardly the four-wheeled farmer's friend I grew up with when I used to go green laning with my dad in his Land Rover One Ten.

I suspect the rural set aren't shedding the tears you might expect because they've done what anyone does in the event of a vacuum; they've gone for the next best thing instead. When I used to get dragged around cattle auctions in Cumbria and Shropshire (don't ask) the farmers who didn't bring Defenders all had Isuzu Troopers parked outside. So it's fitting that it's this minnow of a Japanese manufacturer that's done the most convincing job yet of rustling up a Defender replacement.

The D-Max pick-up truck isn't new, so chances are the farming types will already know it's hardy enough to drag itself out of a muddy field without complaint, but Isuzu's sent it off to boot camp anyway. It's teamed up with a company called Arctic Trucks, who've insisted the D-Max watches nothing but Bear Grylls documentaries and learns how to make shelters out of twigs.

What's emerged is a proper off-roader with raised suspension and big, knobbly tyres, the latter of which can be inflated and deflated with an on-board pump. That means – and I know this is highly topical at the beginning of August – you can essentially float on top of soft snow rather than getting bogged down in it.

Admittedly having an extra six degrees of approach angle is probably a tad excessive for navigating supermarket car parks, but if you're in Cumbria or Yorkshire this winter and there's a repeat of last year's floods or a freak snowdrift you'll definitely want one of these to come to your rescue.

At £33k for the double-cab version it's not the cheapest way into a mud-plugging off-roader, but it's still £11,000 less than a Land Rover Discovery and roughly the same as a Discovery Sport. Neither of which have massively raised ride heights and on-board compressors.

It's sad the Defender's gone, but it doesn't mean it's taken hard-as-nails off-roaders with it.

Agressive flair for C1

CITROEN has paired up aggressive styling with an insurance-friendly engine to win younger drivers over to its smallest offering. The C1 Furio is available with two petrol engines – a 68bhp 1.0-litre or an 82bhp 1.2-litre.

It's gone on sale this week, with prices starting from £10,855.

BMW is using electricity and petrol to make its biggest saloon kinder to the environment

BMW launch eco version of 7 Series

Report by David Simister

BMW boffins have finally delved into their hybrid car parts bin to create two new eco-friendly versions of its 7-Series.

The 740e blends a 258bhp four-cylinder engine with an electric motor, meaning it's capable of driving 29 miles on electricity alone and of getting to 60mph in 5.4 seconds.

It costs £68,330, or £74,000 if you plump for the four-wheel-drive version.

Burscough suffer 67-run home defeat

BURSCOUGH sit in fourth place after suffering a 67 run home defeat by Prestatyn.

The visitors were asked to bat first and thanks to Danny Williams (39), Ryan Westwell (35) and Gareth Boughey (25) put 161 up on the board. In reply, the hosts were rolled over for just 94, with skipper Brendan Domigan (44), Michael Brookwell (20) and Michael Bimpson (14) the only players to hit double figures as the rest managed just 5 runs between them as they had no real answer to Kieron New 6-33 and Sampath Perera 4-24.

Maghull were sent back to the bottom of the Liverpool Competiton First Division table after a four wicket home defeat by Sefton Park after declaring on 184-9, with Jack Wrigglesworth (58), Paul Walters (43) scoring the bulk of the runs, while Jameel Stuart took 6-20. In reply, an unbeaten 48 from Richie Forsyth, 36 from Sean Vandome and 31 not out from Richard Martin took Sefton to victory on 188-6, with Declan Devine taking 4-44.

Ainsdale replaced Wigan in top spot after a very comfortable eight wicket win at Bull Hey.

Andy Barlow's decision to put Wigan into bat was fully justified as king of the swingers Mal Swift took his wicket tally past 40 for the season with 5-22 off 18.2 overs and Marty Farrell took 3-21 as the hosts were dismissed for just 74. In reply, Barlow carried his bat to finish unbeaten on 19 and Tom Jones cracked 31 as the visitors eased to victory on 75-2.

Division One fixtures: Ainsdale v Maghull, Fleetwood Hesketh v Burscough.

Ormskirk cruise it to National Cup semi-final

ORMSKIRK reached the last four of the Royal London Club Championship on Sunday with a convincing seven wicket win at Bamford Fieldhouse,

The hosts elected to bat and were restricted to 172-6 in their 45 overs, with Lee Dale (66) and former Lancashire skipper Warren Hegg (33) scoring over half their runs, whilst Scott Lees and Nick Caunce each took a couple of wickets.

In reply, Ian Robinson (23) and two unbeaten knocks from Josh Bohannon (85*) and skipper Matty Glayzer (38*) led Ormskirk to victory with 23 deliveries left on 173-3, they will now travel to either Chester Broughton Hall or South Northumberland in the semi final on Sunday, August 28.

Ormskirk now sit in second place in the Liverpool Competition Premier Division table after a 114 run home win over relegation threatened Rainford.

A superb century from Josh Bohannon (122 inc 14x4 & 1x6), 47 from Andy Baybutt and 43 from Ian Robinson enabled Ormskirk to declare on 250-4, with Andy Davies taking 3-50.

In reply John Dotters hit an unbeaten 55 but his efforts were all in vain as Lancashire's Simon Kerrigan 4-28 and Scott Lees 3-27 helped dismiss Rainford for 136 to seal an emphatic victory.

Northern sit on top of the table after a convincing 115 run win at struggling Birkenhead Park.

Batting first Northern declared on 220-5, thanks to Liam Grey (72), Justin Snow (35*), Stephen Cole (30) and skipper James Cole (27*).

In reply 4-38 from Ryan Maddock, 3-13 from Scott Snaylam and five victims behind the stumps from Northern's skipper helped seal victory and dismiss the hosts for 105.

Sixth placed Formby had a 27 run home win in a low scoring contest against Lytham.

The hosts were soon in trouble on 66-8 but 24 from James Seaward and 26 from tailender Ollie Sutton helped them eventually post 122, with Toby Lester 4-17 and Luke Williams 3-31 in form with the ball.

In reply Lytham opener Taylor Cornall almost took his team to victory but his 178 ball vigil ended when he was last man out for 48 as Lytham were dismissed for 95, with Gary Keedy 5-27 from 24 overs and Tym Crawford 5-42 taking all ten wickets to fall, whilst Seaward claimed five victims behind the stumps.

This weekend's local LDCC Premier Division fixtures: Northern v Wallasey, Ormskirk v Lytham.

Cup final celebration game was a five goal thriller

Skelmersdale United 2
Enfield Town 3

A MATCH to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the 1967 FA Amateur Cup Final lived up to its billing and was both entertaining and thrilling to the end, writes Neil Leatherbarrow.

Perhaps most importantly from the host's perspective it showed that Tommy Lawson has Skem very much on the right lines with the season two weeks away.

Although Skelmersdale went three goals down, the way they fought back promised plenty.

In the 19th minute Enfield struck, Nathan Livings pushed a well weighted ball behind Skelmersdale's makeshift defence and Corey Whitely rounded Martin Fearon before slotting home from an angle.

In the 32nd minute the North Londoners got their second. Ricky Gabriel slipped Niata in down the inside-left channel and he finished clinically.

Skelmersdale raised their game after that and it was a prelude of what was to come in the latter stages of the game.

Shaun Holden continued his overlap down the left and finished it with a vicious near-post shot that McDonald did well to keep out.

However, just before the interval Whitely thumped a shot against the Skelmersdale post.

Just after the restart Mahoney brought a diving save out of McDonald, but it was to be Enfield that got the crucial third goal of the game. Whitely received the ball on the left in the 61st minute, he carried it across the field before unleashing a powerful 20 yard effort into the net.

Veterans of the 1967 FA Amateur Cup Final team with the current chairman and officials

Two minutes later Ince cut into the Enfield box from the left and was the victim of a clumsy challenge.

A penalty was given and despatched by Chris Almond.

The goal gave Skelmersdale hope and the tempo of the game changed noticeably.

In the 77th minute Mahoney set off on a run from the left. He slotted the ball behind the Enfield defence and Frenchman and former Nantes player Lucas Piquet wrong footed keeper McDonald and made it 2-3 from 15 yards out.

Skem pressed and Enfield fell back as Tommy Lawson side finished strongly. However the best effort fell to Mahoney and went just wide as Enfield held out for a win they probably deserved.

Among the positives was the return of George Donnelly who been out since October 2015 and has undergone the surgeon's knife for a hip injury.
